

Jason Baillargeon

Letter of Introduction

To whom it may concern,

Hello and welcome to my student teaching portfolio for the Spring 2025 semester. My name is Jason Baillargeon, and I have completed my first teaching placement at Birch Grove Primary School in Tolland, CT. In this portfolio, you will find my website following the link below which provides access to many pictures of myself in the placement as well as teaching videos! These will be found under the “Instructing and Engaging Students in Learning” portion of my portfolio. Under the tab “Planning for Instruction, you will find all my lesson plans for my throwing and catching unit that I had completed while at Birch Grove. These lessons are written under alignment of looking for the same goals in throwing underhand and overhand for distance and accuracy while displaying all cues as well as catching. You will find all my assessments under the “Assessing Student Learning” tab. This is where you can find my thought process for what I am looking for when I am assessing, how I got to that point and why I assess the way that I do in both the cognitive and psychomotor domains. I believe that I am a highly qualified physical educator that can make any environment a successful and comfortable environment for all students. Thank you for considering me and taking the time to browse through my work!
